ICLA INAUGURAL SEMINAR 2016

International Construction Law Association

The ICLA is proud to present its Inaugural Seminar, "International Construction Law: Bridging Common and Civil Law; is standardisation possible?" to be held on 24 June 2016 in Paris, France.

The ICLA was established in May 2015 by bringing together leading lawyers, barristers, construction professionals, judges and academics from around the globe specialising in International Construction Law. The aim of the ICLA is to bridge the gap between the Civil and Common law by informing and debating on Construction Law issues.

WHY YOU SHOULDN'T MISS THIS EVENT

- "ICLA brings together construction lawyers and professionals from every jurisdiction around the world"
- "From China to South America, Russia to England, a truly global association"
- "Leading construction lawyers and professionals speaking from China, Brazil, USA, Russia, England, Germany, France and the Middle East"

CONSTRUCTION LAW EXPERTS

The ICLA Inaugural Seminar will provide an overview of the different jurisdictions of law from around the globe, in particular the Common and Civil law, and how popular Construction Law issues are handled under these jurisdictions.

The morning session will start with giving the "big picture" where experts in Construction Law will examine the different jurisdictions of law and their history, how they are related and what are the key principles and differences between the Civil and Common Law.

For the afternoon session expert speakers will focus on Construction Law issues found in every jurisdiction such as delay damages, limitations of liability and defects liability and how the different families of law handle some of these issues. The different families of law and experts speakers will come from:

- Napoleonic Civil Code
- Chinese Civil Code
- Germanic Civil Code
- Russian (Central Asia) Civil Code
- North Americas
- South Americas
- GCC Civil Codes
- Common Law (English)
- Nordic Law
